

2003 • AFA ALL-AMERICANS

The American Football Association is once again proud to present the annual AFA All-American selections for the Semi-Pro Football level of the sport. The AFA is in our 25th year of operation as the national association monitoring and evaluating semi-pro players, teams and leagues coast-to-coast.

Each year the AFA selects 75 First, Second and Third Team All-Americans (as well as hundreds of honorable mentions) from among a list of players submitted by many of the 60 different leagues playing semi-pro football throughout the course of the season. In 2003 those leagues provided playing venues for 657 teams while extending opportunities to more than 32,000 players - to continue doing something they really 'love to do' - play football. While many of our All-Americans are hoping for a shot at the next level, most are just grateful to be recognized by their peers as AFA All-Americans! These players are truly "Semi-Pro and Proud" of their football accomplishments during the 2003 season.
